

$100,000 HOSPITAL DRIVE

THE NEED FOR THE HOSPITAL IS UNQUESTIONED.

The People of the County Have the Money—A Small Fraction of the War Bonds Would Put it Over.

The following appeal has been addressed to the people of Adams county by the Hospital Board of Directors, for their answer in the drive from Oct. 15 to 26:

Mr. John M. Warner, of Gettysburg, is now erecting at his own expense on a beautiful site in the southwestern part of the Borough a public Hospital for the people of Adams County.

A Noble Impulse.
For many years the need of a Hospital has been felt, but the cost of its erection and support seemed beyond our means. Realizing the desirability of a Hospital and moved by sympathy for the suffering, Mr. Warner determined to donate the ground and the building, which bears the name of his beloved wife, who cordially seconds the plans and purposes of her husband.

A Blessed Institution.
A Hospital is a Life Saving Station, to which are brought the sick and the injured for healing. Here medical science and surgical skill, efficient nursing, approved appliances and sanitary conditions are made available for the restoration of the afflicted.

The existence of a Hospital is the mark of humanity, intelligence and liberality. It indicates a true appreciation of the sacredness of life. God's precious gift which should be conscientiously conserved.

The accessibility of a Hospital is an important consideration. It ought to be within easy reach of the community so that the suffering will be saved a tedious journey and that they may be readily visited by their friends.

The Present Building.
Our Hospital will be a fine structure to which Mr. Warner, himself an experienced builder, is giving his personal attention. The basement walls, faced with split granite, are completed. There will be a two-story brick structure, making practically a three-story building. It is L shaped, the east front measuring 75 feet and the north front 80 feet.

It will contain fifteen rooms on the two main floors, besides two sun parlors, an operating room, a children's ward, a maternity ward, a ward for men and one for women. The basement will have the kitchen, dining room, X-ray room, laundry, space for furnaces, storage and so forth. An elevator sufficiently large to carry a bed will run from the basement to the top floor. Closets, lavatories and all other accessories will be provided. The building will be well-lighted by large windows and will present an inviting appearance.

The Directors.

The general management of the Hospital will be in the hands of twenty-four directors, who have secured from the courts a charter giving them a legal existence and standing as a Board. It will endeavor to carry out the design of the principal donor in making the Hospital a valuable help to our people. It will be the duty of this Board to make proper By-laws, to engage competent employees, to keep the building and grounds in good condition, and to manage the finances.

A Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Board of Directors will very soon take steps to form a Ladies' Auxiliary, without whose co-operation the Board would be unable to successfully conduct the Hospital.

The Medical Staff.

Every physician in good standing in Adams County will be entitled to a place on the medical staff. And if he signifies his willingness to take turn in rendering his services he will be enrolled on the staff. The regulations for the actual medical and surgical work will be made by the doctors, subject to the approval of the Board.

Every doctor may have his own patients admitted and personally treat them. The utmost freedom, consistent with good order, will be accorded to physicians.

The Superintendent.

There will always be a Head Nurse in attendance, who will be the acting superintendent of the Hospital, unless otherwise ordered by the Board.

The Patients.

Patients will be admitted irrespective of race, color, social and financial standing, or creed. The Hospital is intended for all the people of the county as well as for the stranger who may need its sheltering arms. The Hospital will accommodate at least thirty-five patients; in case of emergency the number can be doubled.

The Charges.

Moderate charges will be made for all services where the patient is able to pay. But no one will be excluded on account of poverty. The destitute will receive the best of attention free of charge.

The Support.

The building is the free gift of Mr. Warner. The equipment and furnishings must be provided by the friends of the Hospital. Individuals, churches, societies, circles, lodges and the like will, it is confidently expected, cheerfully supply these needs.

After the Hospital is actually ready for service, the annual cost of maintenance will be normally about six thousand dollars. The sources of income are fees from patients, free-will offerings, donations of goods, proceeds of endowments, and appropriations made by the State.

The $100,000 Drive.

After due deliberation the Directors have fixed as the objective of a great "Drive" throughout the entire county the above sum. If this amount is pledged the support of the Hospital is assured beyond doubt or worry.

Adams County is one of the most prosperous counties of Pennsylvania. It is famous for its wheat and its apples. It was the first of the counties to go over the top in the Victory Drive. Without impairing the resources of its Banks it has subscribed over five million dollars to the several national loans.

It is easily able to set aside $100,000 for this splendid institution. Here is a great call—a call to alleviate suffering and save precious lives. Let us rally around this one common popular institution and give it undivided support from its start.

In behalf of the Board,

Col. Cope Commended.

The Gettysburg National Park Commission in its report to the Secretary of War 1919, refers to Colonel Cope, Engineer of the Commission, as follows:

"Lieut. Col. Emmor B. Cope entered on his duties as the engineer July 17, 1893. Served with distinction during the war, 1861-1865, upon the staffs of Gen. Meade and Warren, and brevetted for gallant and meritorious services. His assistance from his presence in the battle has been invaluable, faithful, and efficient. YOUNG WOMAN ENDS LIFE

MRS. CHAS. BUPP, DESPONDENT OVER ILL HEALTH.

A. L. Sollenberger, Prop. of Piney Mountain Inn, Dies at Winchester.

Mrs. Charles Bupp, aged 35 years, ended her life at her home in Gettysburg last week by inhaling gas. She had not been in good health for some time, but was apparently in good spirits when her husband went to his work in the furniture factory in the morning. She left a note indicating her intentions to end her life on account of her health. She had been to two sanitariums recently at Jamesville, Md., and at Harrisburg, for treatment. When Mr. Bupp returned for his dinner he found his wife dead, propped up in three chairs beside several open gas jets. She had tied three pieces of rubber hose to reach from the jets to her mouth. These had fallen from her mouth after her death. The dinner had been prepared and was on the table waiting for the husband. She is survived by her husband and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Edwin Plank, Sandoe Kitzmiller, and Blaine Kitzmiller, of Gettysburg; Charles Kitzmiller, of York; Starr Kitzmiller, of Harrisburg; Olive Kitzmiller, of Philadelphia; Guyon Kitzmiller, of Baltimore; and Percy Kitzmiller, formerly of the United States Marines, whose residence is unknown.

Mrs. Lucinda Sheeler, aged 91 years, 3 months and 17 days, one of Hanover's oldest residents, died on Thursday from infirmities of age. She was the widow of the late Henry Sheeler, and resided in York Springs for many years. She had been in failing health for some time. She is survived by an only sister, Mrs. Henrietta Flickinger, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Maggie E. Sprengle, of Hamiltonban township near Fairfield, died at her home on Monday from heart failure aged 80 years, 4 months and 17 days. She is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Margie Wills, of Oregon; William Sprengle, of Pittsburgh; Chester Sprengle, of Harrisburg; Clyde Sprengle, of Fountaineau; Mrs. Sanders and Florence, at home. Funeral was on Wednesday, services in the Fountaineau Reformed Church and interment in the cemetery of that place.

A Lincoln Sollenberger, builder and owner of Piney Mountain Inn along the Lincoln Highway in western part of Adams county, died at the home of his parents at Winchester, Va., on Monday from cancer of the stomach, in his 54th year. He was a native of Franklin county, his parents moving to Winchester when he was young. He returned to Franklin county, becoming a farmer first, then a successful hardware merchant in Chambersburg. He established the Chambersburg Plumbing and Heating Company, a prosperous business. Retiring from business in 1916 he devoted himself to the building of the Piney Mountain Inn and the place has attracted a large patronage. He retained his legal place of residence in Chambersburg and was a school director of that town at his death. He married Miss Myra E. Lockwood, daughter of Douglas Lockwood, of New York. She survives with five children: Edna M., Charles, William, Harry F., Noah, Warringer, and Louise. The following brothers and sisters with their parents also survive: John S. Sollenberger, Benjamin F. and Mrs. C. M. Brown, of Winchester, Va.; Mrs. Ralph Steele, of Alexandria, Va.; and Charles M. Sollenberger, of near Martinsburg, W. Va.

Mrs. Stella Flesham Saffell, wife of William Saffell, died in Washington, D. C., on Wednesday aged 22 years. She was born in New Oxford and lived there many years while her father was manager of Hotel Oxford. She was employed in the exchange of the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company for some time and was married about a year ago. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Frank Flesham Fink, of Hanover, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. John Fuhrman and George Flesham, of Hanover; Mrs. Daniel Keller, of Washington; Mrs. John Robinson, of South Carolina; Harry Flesham, of Waynesboro, and John Flesham, of New Oxford. IS LIFE SAVING STATION

Tuberculosis kills 150,000 persons in the United States every year. These two women escaped. They are shown in the Night and Day Camp, conducted by the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis. They are among the fortunate ones because they knew how to take care of themselves when this great menace threatened them. They know that the cure lies in plenty of fresh air, even if the temperature is always freezing, and in food and rest under proper medical supervision. Tuberculosis is a disease that is preventable as well.

These two women are right living, in building up a new life. They are not only free from the disease, but they are also healthy and happy. They are the result of the work of the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis. RESERVES LIVE BIG HEALTH ADVANTAGE

Abundance of Fresh Air and Sunlight Do Much to Check Ravages of Tuberculosis.

DANGER IN CLOSED WINDOWS.

National Tuberculosis Association, Which Sponsors the Annual Sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals, Reports 150,000 Deaths Each Year From the Disease.

People who live in the smaller towns and on farms have a great health advantage over the city dwellers in that they have ever an abundant supply of fresh air and sunlight.

These two gifts of nature, so lavishly bestowed, are not always appreciated to their fullest extent. They are two of the strongest weapons against the menace of tuberculosis, or consumption as it is sometimes called. But consumption is not unknown in the rural districts. The death rate is sometimes as great in these sections as in the more crowded localities, chiefly because of carelessness or indifference to the signs of the disease.

Few, indeed, are the farm houses or the homes in the small towns or villages that contain the germ of the disease. One of the ways in which the disease is often found in the home are shutters in the mistaken belief that fresh air is harmful.

This paves the way for disease, especially tuberculosis, which generally attacks the lungs.

White Plague Kills 150,000 a Year.

The white plague claimed 150,000 lives last year in the United States. More than 1,000,000 Americans are suffering from it today. These figures are compiled from reports of experts all over the country and sent to the National Tuberculosis Association, the leading agency in the country to combat this disease. This organization is sponsor for the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale, from which its financial support is chiefly derived.

As medical science has proved consumption is both preventable and curable, the suffering caused by this disease is largely unnecessary. Most tuberculosis victims are between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

Causes Half Billion Loss Annually. These are the years when people are most active, the years of their greatest production. The snuffing out of these lives just when they are at the height of their usefulness means an annual loss to the country of nearly half a billion dollars.

Fresh air is the cheapest of medicines. Outdoor sleeping porches are not only for the sick. They help well folks to keep well, and the country dweller can have this aid to healthy living at far less inconvenience than his city neighbor.

You can help directly by seeing that you and your family are living under the most healthful conditions possible.

CONGRESS HONORS PERSHING

THE GRATITUDE OF CONGRESS AND PEOPLE GIVEN HIM.

General Pershing Delivers His First Set Speech to the American People.

Congress at a joint session of the Senate and House paid tribute to General Pershing on September 18. Senator Cummings, of Iowa, president pro tem of the Senate, Speaker Gillette, of the House, and General Clark, of Missouri, the home of General Pershing, expressed to him the gratitude of Congress and the Nation for his victorious direction of the American forces. General Pershing replied in the first prepared speech he has made since his return, as follows:

"I am deeply sensible of the privilege of appearing before you as a representative of the American Expeditionary Forces, and am filled with emotion at the sentiments that have been expressed. This honor affords me profound gratitude as a recognition of the achievements of our splendid army. In receiving at your hands an expression of the approval of our people I am richly rewarded.

"A final report of the organization and the operations of our armies will be made to the Secretary of War. The manner in which this great force was developed into an instrumentality for victory is well known to you. The burdens that fell to the lot of our soldiers have been heavy and the way beset by many obstacles; but faith in the righteousness of our cause and trust in Almighty God have given us courage and inspiration.

"The trials of battle demanded Spartan endurance and utmost self-sacrifice. Never have men faced a more difficult task, nor borne greater hardship, and never have troops shown a finer spirit of willingness or more resolute purpose.

"The might of America lay not only in her numbers and in her wealth, but also in the spirit of her people, and their determination to succeed at whatever cost. While every man who went to France courageously did his part, he and his were millions of others eager to follow, all supported by a loyal people who deprived themselves of pleasures, who bled in France, Belgium, or Italy in villages or in the camps of England, our young men have left behind them a standard of frankness, of integrity, of gentleness, and of helpfulness which will give the other nations of the world a firmer belief in the sincerity of our motives.

"The benefits flowing from the experience of our soldiers will be broadly felt. They have returned in the full vigor of manhood, strong and clean. In the community of effort men from all walks of life have learned to know and to appreciate each other. Through their patriotism, discipline, and association they have become virile, confident, and broad minded. Rich in the consciousness of honorable public service, they will bring into the life of our country a deeper love for our institutions and a more intelligent devotion to the duties of citizenship.

"To you, gentlemen of the Congress, we owe the existence and maintenance of our armies in the field. With a clear conception of the magnitude of the struggle, you adopted the draft as the surest means of utilizing our man power. You promptly enacted wise laws to develop and apply our resources to the best effect. You appropriated the fabulous sums required for military purposes. Many of your members visited the armies in the field and cheered us by their interest and sympathy. You made possible the organization and operation by which victory was achieved.

"Throughout the war the President reposed in me his full confidence, and his unflinching support simplified my task. The Secretary of War made repeated visits to the front, and I am deeply grateful for his wise counsel. Under him the various staffs, bureaus and departments, with all their personnel, are deserving of especial acknowledgment for the ability with which their problems were met. The officers and soldiers who served at home are entitled to their full share in the victory. There existed a unity of purpose between our Government in all its branches and the command of the troops in the field that materially hastened the end.

"Our navy performed a brilliant part in transporting troops and supplies and in maintaining our sea communications. The army was employed overseas with the maximum of safety and comfort and with incredibly small loss. In this arduous service the generous assistance of the seamen of Great Britain deserves our lasting appreciation.

"A special tribute is due to those benevolent men and women who ministered to the needs of our soldiers at home and abroad. The welfare societies maintained by a generous public gave us invaluable aid. In our hospitals the surgeons and nurses, both permanent and temporary, served with a skill and fidelity that will ever be worthy of our grateful remembrance.

"Business and professional men abandoned their private interests and gave their service to the country. Devoted men, women, and even children, often in obscure positions, zealously labored to increase the output of ships, munitions, war material, and food supplies, while the press and the pulpit stimulated patriotic enthusiasm.

Our admiration goes out to our war-worn allies, whose tenacity, after three years of conflict, made possible the effectiveness of our effort. Through their loyal support and hearty co-operation a general spirit of comradeship sprang up among us, which should firmly unite the peoples as it did their armies.

"The cheerfulness and fortitude of our wounded were an inspiration and a stimulus to their comrades. Those who are disabled should become the affectionate charge of our people, whose care they have so richly earned. Let us, in sympathy, remember the widows and mothers who today mourn the loss of their husbands and sons.

"Our hearts are filled with reverence and love for our triumphant dead. Buried in hallowed ground which their courage redeemed, their graves are sacred shrines that the nation will not fail to honor.

"The glorious record made in the fight for our treasured ideals will be a precious heritage to posterity. It has welded together our people and given them a deeper sense of nationality. The solidity of the Republic and its institutions in the test of a world war should fill with pride every man and woman living under its flag. The great achievements, the high ideals, the sacrifices of our army and our people belong to no party and to no creed. They are the Republic's legacy to be carefully guarded and carefully transmitted to future generations."

Did You Know That:

During our 19 months of war more than 2,000,000 American soldiers were carried to France. Half a million of these went over in the first 13 months and a million and a half in the last 8 months.

The highest troop-carrying records are those of July, 1918 when 306,000 soldiers were carried to Europe and May, 1919, when 330,000 were brought home to America.

Most of the troops who sailed for France left from New York. Half of them landed in England and the other half landed in France.

Among every 100 Americans who went over 49 went in British ships 45 in American ships, 3 in Italian, 2 in French, and 1 in Russian shipping under English control.

Our cargo ships averaged one complete trip every 70 days and our troop ships one complete trip every 35 days.

The cargo fleet was almost exclusively American. It reached the size of 2,600,000 deadweight tons and carried to Europe about 7,500,000 tons of cargo.

The greatest troop-carrier among all the ships has been the Leviathan, which landed 12,000 men, or the equivalent of a German division, in France every month.

The fastest transports have been the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, which have made complete turnarounds, taken on new troops, and started back again in 19 days.

MADE RECORD DURING WAR

Soldiers Proud of "Stars and Stripes," Official Organ of American Troops in France.

The most remarkable publication born of the war appears to have been "The Stars and Stripes." As it went out of business with the final scattering of its staff in June its record is now open to the public.

The publication was, as is well known, the official organ of the American expeditionary forces in France, and there is no doubt that it lived up to its dignity in a handsome manner. It started with a circulation of 30,000, and this was increased to 550,000 in less than a year. It maintained a French war orphan fund, to which 450,000 soldiers contributed 2,000,000 francs, and in its 16 months of life the paper cleared 3,500,000 francs.

There are other details of its progress and its work, among which is one to the effect that it printed 500 poems by soldiers and rejected 20,000.

The Editor and Publisher prints an extended review of the accomplishments of the paper, and from it we learn that its staff at one time or another contained something like 250 men. Among them were Sergt. Maj. Philip Von Blon, managing editor, and Sergt. Robert I. Snodgrass, staff contributor, both Clevelanders.

JUST HOME FROM SIBERIA

SPURGEON M. KEENEY TALKS TO COLLEGE BOYS.

Experiences at Oxford University, Mesopotamia and Siberia Interestingly Related.

On last Saturday, Sept. 20, at the chapel exercises, Gettysburg students had the privilege of hearing one of the college alumni who is now studying abroad. Mr. Spurgeon M. Keeney, who delivered a short address to the boys on the subject, "From Gettysburg to Gettysburg," is a member of the class of '14, and was winner of the Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford in 1915. He is one of the three Gettysburg graduates who are now studying at that institution.

In his address, Mr. Keeney divided his experiences, since leaving Gettysburg, into three distinct parts: first, the English; second, the Mesopotamia, and third, the Siberian. He entered Oxford University in 1916 and found the plan quite different from what it is in normal times. He came there during the period in which England was passing through its severest trials of the war. The efforts of everybody were centered on one great object—the winning of the war. Like all other institutions Oxford was heartily engaged in the war work campaigns. Consequently there was little to indicate that this was the seat of one of the greatest universities in Europe. The walks and flower beds were torn up to give way to war gardens. Halls, dormitories and class rooms were converted into hospitals for convalescents from the western front, because the needs of the country against the enemy demanded it.

After spending forty days at Oxford Keeney entered the "Night Transport Service." He was engaged in this service for a period of three months. This work which he found both interesting and valuable, consisted of transporting troops, who had come back from the front, to various points in London. They were men who were wounded, sick and fatigued and who needed some good rest before going in the front line trenches again.

Early in 1917 Keeney, with seven other Rhodes men, volunteered his services for war work in Mesopotamia. He landed at Basra, on the Persian Gulf in midsummer. His work here consisted of arranging new sites for "Y" buildings and doing "Y" work among the troops in that country. At that time there were in that section about 100,000 white troops and 250,000 Indian troops. The fighting was centered mainly over the possession of the oil wells in Mesopotamia and covered such ancient cities as Nineveh and Babylon. The work with the Indian troops was made very difficult by the fact that the Y. M. C. A. could carry on no Christian work with them—owing to certain government provisions. This and the fact that these men were homesick and helpless rendered conditions even worse. The climate of the country was also a great hindrance to any kind of work. Thousands of troops died from the effects of the intense heat. These are only a few of the difficulties which Mr. Keeney had to combat in his work in Mesopotamia.

It was on his way home that Keeney asked to go to Siberia. Here he was assigned to work with the Czech-Slovaks. The situation in this country was very complicated owing to the fact that many thousands of people were there who originally did not belong there. Mr. Keeney in closing, said that he hoped the college men of to-day would enter every phase of life that it is possible for our nation to come in touch with.

On Sunday Mr. Keeney spoke to College Y. M. C. A. dwelling on two points of view. First, while on the desert lands of Mesopotamia and plain of Siberia, and second, as he looked from our place of preparation here to the fields waiting for the Christian College Man.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. among the Indian troops did not only affect the future of the men themselves and their own native lands but it presents new problems in this reconstruction period which call for the response of every sound contemplative mind. Mr. Keeney gave great credit to the noble and heroic men of England and America who went into those desert wastes and carried the messages of cheer and help. Men of Yale, Cambridge, and Toronto gave their best efforts so that the natives might get a new vision of citizenship, national life, and a glimpse into the national problems which are now to play an important part in the future of their own native lands. These men worked with a child-like mind, a mind which was ready to receive in the simplest form the ideals of the new world. Men who received such a glimpse into the greater problems and the fruits of such a civilization as ours are now in their home lands among their own people and as ambassadors of these new principles they are telling their own fellow countrymen of the great possibilities in the new period.

This opening of blind eyes now presents the world need for education to develop and create minds in attitude and capacity capable of fully realizing these new ideals taught by our "Y" men and so fully realize them that they will become a working factor in the native's own land. These dark skinned heroes have had an unconquerable spirit. The men of India, the warriors of Poland and Siberia are undefeated as they stand on the border of the new era yet in the shadows. But they have received the message of hope and they feel America, England and the great nations of the earth will come to aid them.

Tire Tape Very Useful.

Tire tape is to the automobilist what a bandage is to a Red Cross nurse, and a man who drives a car would as soon think of leaving it out of his tool box as a Red Cross nurse would think of leaving a bandage out of her first-aid kit.

The United States Tire Company advises all its patrons to include a roll of its tape in their equipment. Its uses are innumerable. It is most frequently used to reinforce bad spots caused by blow-outs and punctures. It is also valuable for winding "leaky" electric wires or making temporary repairs to broken rods or rattling parts.

U. S. Tire Men Carefully Trained.

A conference of the service men of the United States Tire Company was recently held at the company's Hartford factory. The gathering included men from every State. The service men from that part of the company's staff which advises the consumer of the best means of getting the most miles out of his tires. The purpose of the conference was to acquaint the service men fully with the latest developments in tire manufacture and the best means of avoiding tire trouble.

GOOD BACKS FOR BAD.

Gettysburg Residents Are Learning How to Exchange the Old Back For a Stronger One.

Does your back ache, feel weak and painful? Do you suffer "lumbago," languor and depression? Is the urine discolored, passages irregular?

The kidneys may be calling for help. Weak kidneys cannot do their work.

Give them the help they need. To cure a kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test.

Convincing proof of merit in Gettysburg endorsement:

H. H. Ridinger, 247 W. Middle St., says: "Kidney disorder, in all probability, brought on by heavy lifting, had me in a bad way at one time. Sharp pains took me across the small of my back and at night, it was so painful I frequently had to get up and sit in a chair. My kidneys became weakened and acted irregularly. I bought Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Store and they gave me good benefit. I always keep Doan's on hand in case of necessity." Price 60¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ridinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Running directly in front of a car driven across the square in Littlestown by Daniel Jacobs, Floyd Sell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sell, of that place, was knocked down. He received severe cuts and bruises but no bones were broken.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Early in the participation of the United States in the world war, the American Red Cross perceived the value of mobilizing the school children of the country and the Junior Red Cross was organized. Before the war ended nine million children were enrolled and helped in the war fund and membership campaigns, in chapter production of relief supplies and manufacturing furniture for the refugees whose homes and household goods were destroyed.

Children everywhere in the United States responded to the call to service sounded by President Wilson as head of the American Red Cross. This photograph is that of an enthusiastic young Japanese member of the Junior Red Cross of Spokane, Wash., starting out on the ambitious undertaking of collecting "a mile of pennies" for war relief. A comprehensive peace program is now being worked out for the Junior Red Cross, which is being held intact.

An American Solomon.

The story is told of a member of the American Red Cross, somewhere on the Syrian side of the African continent, who found himself faced with something of the same problem the solution of which earned for Solomon, in ancient days, the reputation of being the wisest of men. On this occasion the child was that of an Armenian woman, found in the house of a Turk at Aleppo, and who, the mother said, had been taken from her when three years old. The child she claimed as hers was a little girl of seven years and she gave no sign of recognizing her mother. The American was puzzled to know what to do. An idea struck him. He told the mother to sing the lullabies with which she had been used to rock her baby to sleep. The little girl looked astonished and thoughtful; then she smiled. Memory had awakened, and the Armenian woman had recovered her child.

His Great Idea.

Frederick, aged four, has a beautiful mother, whom he very much admires. One day he accompanied his father to an art exhibition and for the first time he saw marble statuary. His father explained to him that many of the busts represented real people, and how the artist cut them out of marble.

On the way home he was unusually quiet. Finally he exclaimed: "Oh, daddy, couldn't we have mother busted in marble?"

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In the City Square of Treves, Germany, headquarters of the allied military forces, an ancient cross surmounted monument marks the city's center of traffic. For this reason American Red Cross officials converted it, as shown by this picture, into a directory of all Red Cross activities in the city.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

The veritable mountains of relief supplies turned out by the millions of chapter workers during the war made the American Red Cross one of the biggest "manufacturing concerns" in the world, with great warehouse space at scores of strategic points all around the globe.

One of the biggest distribution centers was at Saloniki, Greece, and in this picture Bulgarian prisoners of war are seen there unloading a Red Cross cargo of 2,500 boxes from a French transport. At the right is seen one of the American Red Cross camions, fleets of which were used in rushing relief to points where the suffering was greatest.

Java Densely Populated.

Out of 48,000,000 people dwelling in the Malay archipelago 36,000,000 live in Java alone, making it the most densely-populated country on the globe.

The Javanese are an agricultural people, both lovers and tillers of the soil. There are but half a dozen cities in this vast population which have over 50,000 inhabitants, and the largest of all, Surabaya, has not more than 200,000. The people live in villages of from 50 to 500, with an occasional larger town, so that there are practically no congested population centers clustered at the bases of the mountains, like Naples at Vesuvius or St. Pierre at Mont Pelée.

Uncle Jake's Best Joke

about wanting to marry any lady. But Maud at eighteen had definitely made up her mind that she would marry Rodney. She had thought of him since she was a little girl, and she had thought of him as a boy who would grow up to be a man and marry her. She had thought of him as a boy who would grow up to be a man and marry her. She had thought of him as a boy who would grow up to be a man and marry her.

But Rodney had made no such professions and though he always asked for dances when he was about he managed to dance with other pretty girls if she refused him.

Maud had thought it all out in her eighteen-year-old mind. She was quite sure that the case was hopeless and that she herself had arrived at the place where she must decide between a life of resigned spinsterhood or the alternative of marrying the man she merely liked.

This man was Walter. Walter had come up to her mother's country place to press his suit with considerable persistence. Maud had assured Walter that she didn't really love him, but had fibbed in saying that she loved no one else.

Then she thought it over quite definitely and decided that, as she was neither musical, artistic nor literary, and had no sisters or brothers to whom children she might devote herself, she had better be married, if only for a home and to have some one manage her affairs. If Walter asked her again before he went back to the city she had determined to accept him.

Then came the special messenger from the post office, ten miles away, bringing that ten-pound box of the choicest candy that the most expensive candy shop in the city had for sale.

Maud opened it, and out dropped a card that simply bore the engraved name of Rodney Blaine. That changed everything. Walter went back to the city unrewarded for his trip, incidentally asking another girl to be his wife, and was accepted.

The same locomotive that bore him back to the city and away from Maud, carried a letter from Maud to Rodney, that showed between the lines that she had been thinking as much of him as the candy showed that he had been thinking of her. Incidentally, the next mail carried an invitation from Maud's mother to Rodney to spend part of his vacation at their cabin, and—well, it was then that Rodney discovered what he had been too stupid to guess before, that Maud really was the most charming girl of his acquaintance and the one he had been in love with from the first.

"It was Uncle Jake that sent that candy," Rodney told Maud. "He was in one of his joking moods and he took your name because it was the first one he came across in my address book, then he got hold of a card of mine and off went the candy. You see I had always loved you, Maud, but I didn't know I had a ghost of a chance. I thought you were all in favor of that Walter Bates. So if it hadn't been for Uncle Jake's tendency to joke, I never would have had the nerve to ask you. I never could have guessed how things were."

Maud was in a reminiscent mood, that brought to her lips a pout that was arch and piquant. "I'm sorry I said what I did about him. Really I think he's a dear and I really didn't mind a bit about the sardines."

Lights for Surgery. The discovery that a pure red light is complementary to the greenish yellow of the fluorescent, so that each makes the eye more sensitive to the others has made possible the use of X-rays during a surgical operation, without danger to the surgeons.

In the past it was necessary for the surgeon to work with his hands exposed to the baneful influence of the rays, and also with a mere shadowy light of the rays themselves to work by. Now it has been found, through the experiments of a French surgeon, that operating with a bright red light alternating with the X-rays makes the operation itself easier, and also the alternating lights make the eyes especially sensitive, so that the most delicate and minor details of the X-ray shadows seem clear.

War's Havoc in Wales. "Only those on the spot," says a correspondent of a London paper, "can fully realize the devastation of the woodland portions of North Wales, which has been carried on for the past three years. This is notably the case in Carnarvonshire, where whole valleys and mountain sides have been robbed in order to satisfy the demand of the government for pitprops and railway sleepers. Notwithstanding the fact that the timber already felled and removed runs into many thousands of tons, the process, according to the terms made with the contractors, will extend in some cases into next year."

Lines and Angles. The new mathematics teacher was thin and angular, indeed, also very severe of countenance and speech. At the very first session with her high school pupils she told them that she had had many years' experience as a teacher of algebra. The statement impressed them.

"But I knew it before she told me," Helen informed her class on the way home. "You see teaching mathematics so many years consecutively is bound to affect one's figure and make it take on the shape of lines and angles."

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. In Serbia.

As far back as the first winter of the war, the Red Cross sent to Serbia a sanitary commission that effectively checked the scourge of typhus, but after the United States entered the conflict, the Red Cross was able, in August, 1917, to send a full commission that carried on extensive relief operations among the suffering refugees of the tortured nation. Hospitals were established, the refugees fed, clothed and given medical attention, the army supplied with much needed dental treatment, farm machinery, and seeds provided to help the Serbs regain their land to productivity, and, not least, measures undertaken for the better of the children. The terrible condition into which these helpless victims of the war had fallen is well portrayed by this photograph of a little Serbian girl wearing the rags and expression of hopeless misery that were all she possessed when the Red Cross came.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. In Roumania.

Soon after the entrance of the United States in the war the successes of the Central Powers in Roumania had reduced that country to a most tragic condition and in the summer of 1917, the American Red Cross dispatched its first Roumanian relief contingent. Two hospitals were at once taken over and operated by the Red Cross, a canteen for the starving refugees established and food and clothing distributed over a large area. Transportation was one of the toughest problems with which the Red Cross workers in Roumania had to deal. Here is seen an oxcart used by the Red Cross to carry its relief supplies up into the mountains.

NEW IDEA IN TRANSPORTATION

Trains to Slide on Runners, Separated
From Track Merely by Thin Film of Water.

Looking toward the transportation facilities of the future, an American electrical experimenter believes that the chief means of travel will be trains without wheels, running on single tracks, and moving almost without friction because they will slide on runners separated from the track by a thin film of water. In short, the fact that one plate of glass will glide practically without friction over another if there is a thin layer of water between them will be applied and worked out in running a train. The idea of a train without wheels is sufficiently surprising, but, according to the writer, a Frenchman had invented
such a train just before the Franco-Prussian war, and the project was not resumed afterward, although a later French inventor made some important improvements. The advantage over modern transportation, if such trains become practicable, is prophesied as noiselessness of operation, equal carrying capacity, and about twice as much speed. The idea looks visionary; but after all it is not wise to distrust possibilities for that reason.

TO BE NEW WORLD'S WONDER

Japanese at Work on Statue of St.
Nichiren, Cutting It From the Solid Rock.

On the Isle of Cow's Head, in that beautiful inland sea, which has been called the Mediterranean of Japan, a ledge of rock overlooks the water, and here a small army of Japanese workmen are busy at the first cuttings that will eventually carve out the largest statue in the world. The Colossus of Rhodes, at one time one of the seven wonders of the world, is said to have been 120 feet high—a small thing compared with the figure of Liberty that stands 151 feet above its pedestal in New York harbor—but the Japanese statue will be of even greater magnitude. Following the line of the natural rock it will be a reclining figure 240 feet long, and therefore that much more impressive than the Buddha at Pegu, Burma, which from head to foot measures 182 feet. The Isle of the Cow's head is private property, and this Broddingnagian adornment is a work of private enterprise. The reclining figure will be that of St. Nichiren, who founded the sect of Buddhism that bears his name. In the wooden model the saint lies asleep, facing whoever sees him, his head pillowed on a block, and his left arm extended along his side; a somewhat archaic figure, yet with considerable realism.

For the enormous statue that is to be cut out of the solid rock from the model the trees and greenery of the Isle of the Cow's head will provide an excellent setting.

Rock Dust to Save Miners' Lives.

Perhaps the oddest, yet one of the most effective, means for preventing —or, at all events, minimizing—disasters in coal mines is the use of rock dust.

A lot of it is placed on boards hung by chains from the roofs of mine tunnels. Obviously in case of an explosion the boards will swing and the dust will be thrown off.

Following an explosion a roaring flame, let us say, is coming through the tunnel. The air is filled with coal dust (or possibly with inflammable gas) to feed it. But it meets a curtain of non-inflammable rock dust (discharged from the board shelves) and is thereby stopped. Rock dust will not burn under any provocation. Suspended thickly in the air, it acts like an asbestos curtain. The flame cannot get through it.

Lost Arms Without Pain.

Our story of a man being blown away, unburnt, by the explosion of a bomb which he did not hear seem incredible to many people. Here is something like an analogy.

King Edward once brought together at his dinner table Rustem Pasha, who had had half his right hand and part of his arm torn off by a bear, and Sir Edward Bradford, who had had his left arm up to the elbow munched away by a tiger.

The two men compared notes.
Neither had felt the least twinge of pain at the time. They imagined that their intense desire to save their lives
dulled all other senses. — London
Chronicle.

Bismarck's Wine Thirst.

In his choice of drinks Bismarck displayed a somewhat unpatriotic spirit. Talking to Mr. John Booth in 1879, Bismarck confessed that when stationed at St. Petersburg, he used to drink two bottles of champagne a day.
He estimated that altogether he had drunk 5,000 bottles of champagne and smoked 100,000 cigars.

on another occasion Bismarck declared that beer "makes men stupid, lazy and useless. It is responsible for the democratic nonsense spouted over the tavern tables. A good rye whisky is very much better."

Chilean Nitrate Needed.

In spite of the prophets of disaster,
the war did not ruin the Chilean nitrate industry; instead, military needs created an unprecedented demand.
Now that this has ceased, the Chilean pessimists are once again predicting ruin, but El Industrial of Antofagasta says there will now be a greater demand than ever for fertilizer and that artificial nitrates have failed even to rival the natural product of Chile.

FURNISHES JOY FOR KIDDIES

Fountain in New York City Square
Put to Eminently Practical Use in the Summer.

In New York, immediately south of the arch which divides Washington square, there is a circle of concrete walk. Inside that circle, like the waternelon riddle, there is a circle of green grass, and inside that circle of green grass there is a small circular pool of clear, sparkling water fed by a thin, geyserlike fountain. From early morning until nine o'clock at night in summer you can hardly see this pool for the ring of noisy, ecstatic children gathered about it, shutting off its view. For the kiddies of the nearby East side have discovered a very practical use for the fountain.
They bathe in it.

On a hot day the little pool is full of small, sun-burned boys, who are not restrained by the lack of bathing suits.
Some take the trouble to remove their coats and outer trousers and leave them on the edge, but others plunge right in regardless of dress. Their mothers, who often accompany them, do not seem to object. As one remarked the other day, "It saves the wash," but whether she referred to her son's clothes or to the boy himself was not made clear.

Occasionally a policeman registers a protest. He orders them out of the pool and disperses the crowd of admiring onlookers, but as soon as his back is sufficiently distant they are all at it again, having as much fun as ever. Stimulated by the shouts of their delighted audience, the young swimmers perform the wildest kind of aerobatic stunts.

ILL LUCK FOLLOWED BOONE

Greatest of All America's Pioneers of Civilization Never a Favorite of Fortune.

With Kentucky won, Daniel Boone found that, by one of the twists of law, the plot of ground he thought was his was not his at all. Almost like a penniless outcast he moved to Virginia, but when fresh tales came to him of land in the west of the Mississippi, then called Louisiana, his sixty-one years did not deter him from risking a fresh start, relates Boys' Life.
In 1795, he established himself near

MODISH VEIL AND HAT

A pleasing effect for driving or dotted with a fine mesh.

In a resort town of South Carolina and back
what he thought was a dead to land;
but in 1509, when this territory passed from Spain to the United States, he found this claim worthless. But now the American people were awakened to a realization of what Boone's leadership in Kentucky had meant to the nation. Congress granted him 500 acres of land. Three in the West, free from want, he passed his last days.
Twenty-five years after his death his remains were brought back to Kentucky, and in the fall he was to be civilized in the shape of a man who carried the torch of civilization among a savage people and landed his chest to the shock of battle that its flames might not be extinguished.

The Engineer's Eyes.

The importance of the eyesight test is understood in a general way, but few people realize the tax laid on the eyesight of an engine driver during a long run. It takes years for a driver to learn thoroughly all the signals on a complicated system, and he must be able to pick out his own at a glance in the maze of a great junction. On the Northwestern railway alone more than 17,000 signals are lit every night, and a driver working from London to Crewe and back is controlled by nearly 600 signals.—London
Chronicle.

Auntie Would Help.

Bill Bush of L.A.A.C. was showing an elderly lady the virtues of the car he sells. He made many turns and at the proper times extended his arm as a turning signal.
The old lady watched the proceeding for some time. Then she craned her neck and looked at the sky.
"Mister," she said sternly, tapping Bill on the shoulder, "you just tend to your driving. It don't look like rain no how, but if it should, I'll let you know."—Los Angeles Times.

Don't Waste PAPER

Keep a paper receptacle somewhere about the place. Throw waste paper and newspapers into it—don't burn or destroy the old paper. Save it until you have several hundred pounds and then bring it to my place and get cash for it

Magazines are valuable

They are worth more than ordinary paper. Tie them in bundles and bring them along to town. We can pay a few cents more for paper and magazines if brought here than if it is necessary to send for them. Throw the bundle in the wagon and drive around to

MR. ORCHARDIST

Maybe your orchard doesn't get wet with dew in the night, and doesn't get you cold and wet in the mornings before the sun gets busy. But if it does—here's the remedy—A pair of over-boots. A light weight rubber boot to be worn OVER the ordinary leather shoe. Protects the leg to the knee, and buckles right below it to keep the top up. When the sun gets up and dries the grass, jerk them off, roll them up, and put them in your pocket—they weigh only 2 1-2 lbs. a pair. Ask to see them the next time you are in town—$2.75 a pair—you will have lots of winter use for them too.

"On the Square"

The Wooltex Designers

Number 5460 (at left)

Even a blouse suit can be slim and straight when cut on such clever lines as this one of Duwet de Lane. Note the narrow fur collar and how black silk embroidery finishes front and back.

Number 5480 (center)

Simple and straight to the hip degree is this severely tailored type of rich tanselone. Sleeves and shoulders are very snug, wide revers join a mannish collar and the skirt just wide enough to consider both comfort and style.

The "Last Word" In Suits And Coats

THE newest suits and coats have just arrived and bring with them the most authentic news about the approved silhouette, favored materials and popular trimmings.

Both coats and suits insist on the straight line. Coats have rebelled against the old idea that to be warm they must be bulky. This year coats of warm soft fabrics fall straight from shoulder to hem.

The "Grenoble" is one of the most interesting Wooltex designs—it flares smartly on both sides and remains flat at front and back.

Wooltex suits are divided into four distinct and individual types with many variations of novel embroideries, odd stitchery and clever paneling. There's the severe "Tailleur," the Blouse, the trimmed Tailor-Made and the Country Suit; which means that you can find the newest style tendencies interpreted in your own type.

We recommend Wooltex, because the Wooltex label promises superior fabrics so carefully tailored that the correct lines remain throughout the season.
